

The crops I typically do on Dobermans vary between long crops, show crops, showable pet crops, and short crops/working crops. The long crops and show crops are taller and more narrow at the base of the ear, and should be done under 10 weeks of age or under 20lbs (younger, around 6 weeks of age and 8 lbs heals the fastest with minimal months of aftercare). The showable pet crop is a touch shorter, and is the most often requested ear, with a slightly wider base/bell. This ear is easier to stand and often requires 6-8 weeks of postoperative taping/posting. The short/working crop is very out of style at the current moment, and my least favorite and/or requested. A short ear with often a very wide bell, is by far the easiest to stand but the least requested. Feel free to find pictures of ears you like and send me your questions and concerns. There are discounts for litters of 3 or more puppies.
